

ACT ONE

CURTAIN OPENS to reveal the factory floor of millionaire EVAN MASK's, "Human AI, Inc". They are building AI personal assistant robots. Trying to desperately get his attention is NORMA, early 30s. She isn't the most aggressive person, so that doesn't help. There have been accidents & safety issues, plus activists are pushing for destruction. She is trying to warn him but he doesn't care.

"I AM THE FUTURE"
(Evan, Cast)

As Evan goes to hod nob with investors, Norma tries to enlist the next in line SAM to hear her out. He tells her to not worry about it and trust the leader. The robots begin to position themselves to be sent out.

"MARCH OF THE ROBOTS"
(Cast/Robots)

A worker enters with a limp robot on a dolly. Sam intercepts, "Not him again. Seventh time this month." Norma chimes in concern, "What's wrong with him? Is he okay?" They dismiss her and turn the robot (LEO) on.

"YOU'RE DEFECTIVE"
(Sam, Leo, Cast)

They roll Leo into the corner, power him down and say they will recycle him later in the week. Norma over hears and clandestinely turns him back on. "That was rude of Sam. You don't seem defective to me. We all have flaws.", she consoles. "Thanks, that's nice of you to say. I am trying. Really" Leo says. As the two continue to talk, a bond starts to form.

"MISSING OUT"
(Leo, Norma)

The "Creole Coffee" shop is right at the foot of Norma's apartment. Every customer has their face planted in a device. Norma stops in for her nightly catch up with the unique owner ZEE. Norma tells of what she is hearing and worried about at work. Zee doesn't much care for the new technology as most. The conversation turns to Norma's love life or lack thereof. She hints about getting Leo to come home with her for company. Zee warns her and them all at the shop.

"EXTINCT"
(Zee, Cast)

Back in her small apartment, Norma fixed her cats, Brad (Pitt) & Bradley (Cooper) some dinner. She grabs a tablet & puts on her TV shows while nestling on the couch. Her face fills with loneliness.

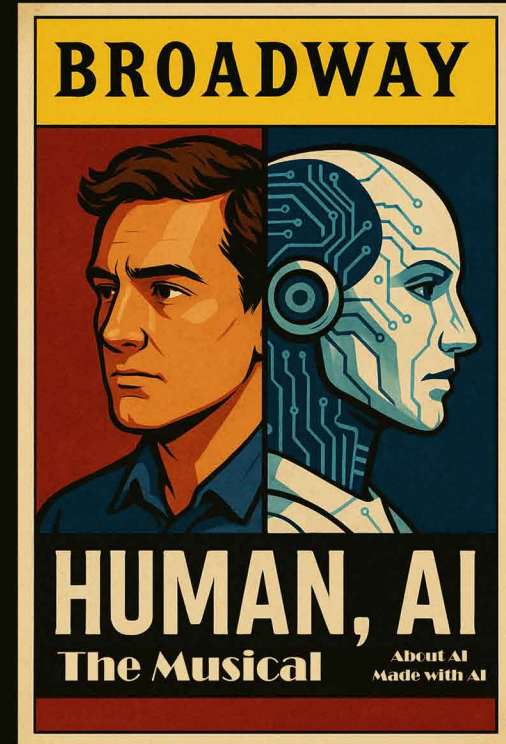

"WHY AM I HERE"
(Norma)
